Serious Note Injected As American Legion Gathers for Convention

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 17 (AP)—An overtone of seriousness prevailed along with roisterous sidewalk antics, clanging bells and roaring toy cannon as the American Legion formally prepared to open its 1948 national convention here tomorrow. President Truman will be a first-day speaker.

The session "will be one of the most seriously toned in our history," declared National Commander James F. O'Neil on the eve of the gathering.

"We are confronted outright with the issue of whether we will have peace or whether Russia will provoke war."

"We hope for the former but must prepare for the latter."

ISN'T SCIENCE WONDERFUL?

The other day science won out down here on Seabrook Farms at Bridgeton, New Jersey. Come down and see sometime! Science caught up with Grandpop.

Now don't get me wrong; we farmers go in for science. Right here on the old farm scientists are thick as thieves. Agronomists, botanists, agronomists, engineers—all kinds. One of our profs down here we call the Sun Doctor. He measures the sunshine, catches the raindrops. He keeps facts and figures on the weather—like a mother fussing over her first born.

This has been going on for years and years. We Men of the Soil cannot be too careful about our dates. For instance, if we plant our June peas or lima beans too late, or our fall spinach too early, we're in trouble—a few hundred thousand pecks of trouble.

So our Sun Doctor does all the calculating and he gives us our go-ahead. "This, and a-zis, and a-tha," says he pointing to the calendar, "are your dates." And what ya know? We look it up and those dates are exactly, precisely, and positively the days that Grandpop put a nag around on the old Almanac. So the Sun Doctor and Grandpop are brothers under the skin.

All of which is maybe unimportant to you folks. But our point is this: Our Seabrook Farms quick-frozen vegetables are getting a whole lot of special attention. We think you ought to give them a try. We plant them, clean them, and freeze them, so maybe we shouldn't brag too much about them.

We'd let you make up your own mind. The name, in case you didn't get it, is Seabrook—Seabrook Farms Quick-Frozen Vegetables and Fruits.

Governor Dewey and President Truman took to the road again today as the presidential campaign went into the next to the last week.

After a quiet Sunday in his mother's home at Owosso, Mich., the Republican nominee headed back to Albany, scheduling speeches on the way at Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse and Schenectady, N. Y.

Mr. Truman arranged a 6 a. m. takeoff in his plane for Miami, Fla., where he is to address the national convention of the American Legion this afternoon. He said he would speak to his fellow veterans as president, not as a political candidate.

On Tuesday, however, he will be back in the office-seeker's role, delivering a speech on farm problems at the fair grounds in Raleigh, N. C. Earlier that day, he will dedicate a monument at Raleigh to three North Carolina born presidents—Jackson, Polk and Johnson.

DEWEY IS COMPLETING a campaign swing that took him as far southwest as Oklahoma City. Mr. Truman got back Saturday afternoon from a similar stumping tour of the midlands.

The President spent most of yesterday working on his three speeches. He found time, however, for a half hour conference with Paul Hoffman and Roger Lapham of the Economic Co-operation administration, and to shake hands with members of the University of Missouri football team which beat Navy Saturday.

He plans to fly from Raleigh to Washington on Tuesday evening. His next scheduled campaign trip takes him to Pittsburgh on Saturday.

Dewey is due in Albany at 6:20 p. m. today. He plans to rest Tuesday, then go to New York on Wednesday to take part in the New York Herald Tribune forum Wednesday.

Police Claim Knowledge of Siegel Slayer

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Oct. 17 (AP)—Police Chief Clinton H. Anderson said today he knows who killed Benjamin (Bugsy) Siegel, but added, "the persons involved are so big we can't go out and give them the bum's rush."

Siegel was slain June 20, 1947, as he sat reading a newspaper in the Beverly Hills mansion of a girlfriend, Miss Virginia Hill. Four bullets were fired into his body.

Chief Anderson, who arrived home by air today from New York City, described Siegel as a Los Angeles gangster and said he was killed on orders of "an international underworld syndicate" because he threatened to talk.

The first big break was developed in the case, Anderson said, declining to elaborate. "This was no ordinary shooting," he added. "There was big money behind it."

He said he needs only time to gather more corroborating evidence before making an arrest. "We have been taking our time, gathering evidence because there is no statute of limitations on murder cases."

The chief said that while he was in New York for the convention of the International Chiefs of Police, he contacted many people, gathering evidence in the Siegel case.

Experts Study Plan to Send U. S. Arms to Europe

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 (AP)—Men studying a military aid program for Western Europe are reported hopeful that some billions of dollars in arms annually could be sent from here without reviving wartime economic controls.

At this stage of planning, some officials say privately they believe it can be done; others are frankly uncertain.

Some think that the next administration, whether Democratic or Republican, may have to choose between giving the Europeans maximum military aid, with limited material rationing here and a minimum aid program without it. Congress would have to give approval.

ONE POINT WHICH does seem to be rather generally agreed upon is this: Any plan of military assistance for the Western European countries would have to be carefully balanced with the Marshall plan of civilian economic assistance.

This probably means that for strictly civilian purposes the Marshall plan countries would not get as much money as they otherwise would have got, but their overall take from the United States, counting military aid, would be greater.

Nothing great was ever achieved without enthusiasm.—Emerson.

War Scare Fades

THERE is a science called semantics, which has to do with the meaning of words and phrases. An apparently plain statement may mean one thing to one man—and a quite different thing to another. The purpose of semantics, which hasn't made much headway in the world, is to get rid of this confusion, and give words an absolute precision.

This illustrates one of the difficulties which has helped to produce the current crisis between Russia on the one hand and the Western allies on the other.

American and British diplomats have met with Molotov, Stalin, and other top Soviet leaders, and have apparently arrived at agreements. Then, a few days or a few weeks later, it appears that the Russians put an entirely different interpretation on what was said and written. That happened at Yalta where, apparently, President Roosevelt came away with an amazingly different idea of what had been agreed upon than that held by Premier Stalin.

The same words were used on both sides—but the meanings read into them varied enormously.

In the Moscow conferences over the Berlin blockade, the Western representatives thought they had made progress.

Newsmen reported our ambassador, General Smith, cheerful and optimistic after his meetings with Stalin. It is generally believed he was sure the Berlin blockade was about to be lifted. We had made a number of concessions to achieve that end, of which the most important was an agreement to use Russian currency, under four-power control, in the area.

But subsequent Russian actions immediately dissipated our hopes. Regardless of what Stalin said to Ambassador Smith—or what Ambassador Smith thought Stalin meant—the top-level Russians went right ahead with the blockade, and kept on trying to break up the air lift and isolate the city. And no one believes those Russian commanders did that without explicit instructions from Moscow.

All in all, the line taken by the Western group has been strengthened more than most of us may realize. There is a directness of language that does not often characterize exchanges among the representatives of theoretically friendly powers.

Secretary Marshall and Foreign Minister Bevin have mused no words in placing the blame for the world's unrest.

And this attitude is not confined to the big countries. Paul-Henri Spaak of little Belgium, speaking before the United Nations general assembly, made one of the sharpest attacks on Soviet foreign policy and said, in addition, that Russia has organized a fifth column in every one of the 58 countries which are members of the UN.

News services said, at the end of September, that the English people were reluctantly coming to fear, for the first time, that war was a possibility. Up to then, they had felt that the situation was somewhat exaggerated, would be solved in one fashion or another, and that no power would be so insane as to plunge the world into another holocaust. The change in sentiment was undoubtedly caused by the British government's announcement that demobilization would be slowed, that the armed services would be built up, and that civilian defense activities would be immediately accelerated. Too, top British officials, in the Foreign Office and elsewhere, have demonstrated an increasing pessimism.

Yet, in this country the feeling in informed quarters still runs against an inevitable war. There will be many more incidents, the experts think, and the talk will get increasingly acrimonious.

Yet they know that the US will not precipitate a shooting war, and they cannot bring themselves to believe that Russia is in a position to fight one.

She is carrying on a tough and extremely intensive plan for building up her military strength and her industrial potential, but it is a long way from completion. Her production of essential materials, notably steel, is so far below ours as to make comparison nearly impossible.

And our scientists, almost to a man, are sure that she does not yet have atomic weapons in anything resembling a useable form—and some say hopefully that it may be many years before she has them.

In any event, once the election is over, we will probably get still tougher in our dealings with Russia. And look for a big increase in military expenditures, plus a step-up in the draft, at about the same time.

It didn't go far enough. It should have had some of the borough mental giants explain where all the money went.

What happened to this great efficient Democratic administration in borough hall? They better start explaining some of their mistakes.

And I list:

(1) Street building. (You can tell the newly-built streets because they have the worst holes.)

(2) Police department inefficiency. (More Pottstown cops are in Norristown court than on our streets.)

(3) Street opening and sewer digging. (On street openings, the borough builds too far over on private property. On sewer diggings, the contractor goes down 13 feet too much because of poor grade figures.)

WASHINGTON
Bowles Race 'Stealing'
Connecticut Spotlight

By RAY TUCKER

WATERBURY, Conn., Oct. 17—Former Price Administrator Chester A. Bowles' sparkling campaign for the governorship of Connecticut as a possible stepping-stone to the presidency or vice-presidency, though he might settle for the Senate, attracts more attention than the Dewey-Truman battle in the Nutmeg State, largely because a Republican presidential victory is conceded.

The Connecticut contest has another appealing angle. It will show whether Advertising Man Bowles' personality and salesmanship are more effective with the suffering customers than President Truman's.

Both officeholders are selling the same line of political goods. Mr. Bowles, who opposed Mr. Truman's termination of price controls at the end of the war, is hammering on the two issues of housing shortages and the high cost of living.

So, belatedly, is Mr. Truman. Both face the same political difficulties—the desire for a change in a historically Republican state.

SIN: Connecticut today seems safe for Governor Dewey by the comfortable margin of 50,000 or 75,000. But Mr. Bowles himself says privately that he will run at least 50,000 ahead of the President.

In a recent magazine article he was unfortunate enough to express doubt on the outcome of the presidential fight—a cardinal sin for a man in his spot.

If Mr. Bowles should win—and the Republicans admit that the tall, handsome, personable promoter "has us worried"—he may give a close race to Governor James Shannon, who obtained his office by the accident of death. A few Democrats predict a Bowles election, though not daring to forecast a Truman triumph.

ARISTOCRACY: Governor Shannon has two advantages that nobody mipses. He is a Roman Catholic in a state with a fairly large representation of that faith, although its politics have usually been run by pre-colonial settlers' descendants. He has served at Hartford, the Capital, as former counsel for the American Federation of Labor.

Although a majority of Connecticut's workmen may vote the Truman-Bowles ticket, the men in the foundries, machine shops, specialty lines, rifle factories, brass mills and nut and bolt plants constitute a sort of aristocracy of labor. They handle delicate, precision tools.

They have frequently shown the same nice sense of balance in handling young machinery. Although they manipulated the levers for Franklin D. Roosevelt in his heyday, they usually swung back to Republicanism in Congressional and local contests in off years, as has the nation since 1938.

SMASHES: Opposites meet in the gubernatorial race.

Whereas Mr. Bowles typifies the youthful, energetic and stimulating breed introduced into national politics by P. D. R.'s appeal to their emotions and imagination, Governor Shannon is the kindly, old-fashioned, up-the-ladder sort of politician.

The former advertising man relies on smart wisecracks and hard, oratorical smashes. Mr. Shannon makes friends through meeting folks personally, and he is meeting a lot of them these days—at county fairs, fraternal dinners, rallies on the street corners and campaign tours into the back country.

BUILDUP: Still another intriguing aspect of the Bowles candidacy is his friends' conviction that he will be a leading candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1952 if he should survive a Dewey-Warren landslide. For that reason alone national politicians will keep their eyes on Connecticut on the night of November 2.

Little Margaret O'Brien got the yen to do a Broadway musical while she was here a couple of weeks ago. Now all she has to do is find a vehicle and talk MGM into letting her do it.

Producer Chandler ("Small Wonder") Cowles is ailing. An idea to solve the parking problem and achieve protection from wartime bombing will frighten the local citizens soon. It's this: Underground parking lots which could "double" as bomb shelters.

JANE GREER is the actress most likely to get the coveted role of the heroine in "Mayerling" when RKO does the remake.

Gypsy Rose Lee is not only starring in the new Paul Feigay revue opening later this month at LaMartiniere, she's acting as designer and seamstress as well. The other day when some expected material didn't arrive in time, Gypsy went home to her East Side Mansion, took down a pair of pink curtains, and converted them into a Highlight of Hollywood's Friar's Folly will be something that ought to be filmed for posterity—a satire of Kay Thompson and the Williams Brothers by Danny Kaye, Bob Hope, Jack Benny and Van Johnson.

All were Birdsboro residents.

CATTLE SALE—A public sale of cattle was held at the Jefferson House by William Davidheiser and Reuben Davidheiser. Thirty-four cows were sold at prices ranging from $17 to $30.

PARROT VS. RAT—"Polly," a popular parrot owned by Henry Herb, of Shanesville, was killed in a battle with a rat which took place in the bird's cage. The body of the dead bird was found by Herb with a lot of rat hair in its beak. Blood stains were found on the bird cage floor and there were signs of a struggle.

Candlelight Ceremony in Methodist Church Unites Kathleen Kocher and Robert Emes

In a beautiful formal candlelight ceremony Saturday night at 8 o'clock, Miss Kathleen Hilda Kocher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred L. Kocher, 354 First avenue, became the bride of Mr. Robert Charles Emes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Emes, of Reading.

Huge banks of white chrysanthemums, decorated with palms and ferns, tall white tapers in the candlesticks and small bouquets of white chrysanthemums in the altar vases, furnished the decorations in the Methodist church where the wedding ceremony was performed by the Rev. James Macomber.

As the large number of guests gathered for the ceremony, a recital was presented by Mrs. H. Bonham Doran, organist, and Mr. Robert Suter, vocalist.

THE BRIDE, WHO was given in marriage by her father, chose a traditional white gown in skinner satin with snugly fitted bodice, sweetheart neckline and long leg-o-mutton sleeves. The bride was highlighted with a spray of seed pearls. The very full skirt fell over a crimson skirt and flowed into a long circular train.

Her finger ring was of imported French net and fell from a tangle of seed pearls matching the spray on her gown. She carried a white Bible to which was attached a large purple orchid and streamers of satin ribbons intertwined with lilies of the valley. At her throat was a single strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Phyllis Dore served as maid of honor in an aqua gown fashioned with sweetheart neckline outlined by a bertha collar which served as the short cape sleeves. With this she wore matching gauntlets and a tangle of flowers with short veil in her hair. Her flowers were a fan shape, bouquet of yellow baby chrysanthemums.

Mr. James Emes, performed the duties of best man for his brother, while the Messrs. Harrison Kocher, brother of the bride, and Walter Leffel, served as ushers.

MRS. KOCHER, MOTHER of the bride, chose a grey crepe dinner dress with white accessories, while the mother of the bridegroom was attired in a blue crepe dinner dress with matching accessories. Both wore corsages of sweetheart roses.

A reception for the guests, attending from New York City, Philadelphia, West Chester, Pottstown, Pittsboro, Nanticoke, Kingston, Wilkes-Barre, Reading, Washington, D. C., New Jersey and the Pottstown area, followed in the social rooms of the church.

Later, the couple left for a two week honeymoon to New York City, with the bride leaving in a light tan sharkskin suit with green accessories and short fur jacket. She wore the orchid from her bridal flowers.

Mrs. Emes is a graduate of Pottstown High school and for the past three years has been employed as a clerk in the patent office in Washington D. C. The bridegroom was graduated from Reading High school and, after serving for three years in the Navy, is employed in the Navy department in Washington.

Valentino R. Rulli Weds Mary A. Guida In Church Ceremony

One of the largest of the Autumn's weddings was that yesterday in St. Aloisius Catholic church, of Miss Mary Ann Guida, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Guida, 557 Chestnut street, and Mr. Valentino R. Rulli, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Rulli, 3 Beras street, Stowe.

The Rev. John Campbell, assistant pastor, united the couple in marriage at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, following a recital of bridal music presented by Mrs. Charles McCarthy, organist, and Mrs. Paul Guthrie, vocalist.

Miss Veronica Magliocco, attended as maid of honor, and Mrs. Teresa Stauffer was the matron of honor. Appearing as bridesmaids were Miss Ann Misko, Miss Gloria Spatzana, Miss Rita Rulli, cousin of the bridegroom, Miss Mary Formi and Miss Rita Raymond, cousin of the bridegroom.

MISSSES NANCY and Bonnie Ash served as the junior bridesmaids, while little Miss Carol Ann Orlando, cousin of the bridegroom, was the flower girl.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was charmingly attired in white sapper satin with sweetheart neckline and long fitted sleeves ending in a point over the hands. Outlining the neckline was tiny sewed rhinestones, seed pearls and crystal beads. To the snugly fitted dropped waistline was attached the very full skirt which ended in a long court train.

Her three tier, three quarter length tulle veil was attached to a tightly fitted cap hand embroidered with rhinestones, seed pearls and crystal beads. She carried white roses and carnations—centered with orchids attached to a white satin muff from which fell showers of Stephanotis.

ALL SENIOR attendants were in more gowns of identical style fashioned with tightly fitting bodices, sweetheart neckline, short cape sleeves and ruffled skirts highlighted by a peplum effect on either side. With these they wore matching mitts and headpieces of fresh pompons, and roses. They all carried matching muffs to which were attached chrysanthemums, roses and streamers.

The matron of honor was in yellow, the matron of honor in American beauty while all the bridesmaids were in blue.

The junior bridesmaids were gowned in aqua and yellow taffeta fashioned with off the shoulder effect necklines on snugly fitted bodice with the very full skirts draping to a bustle in the back. They carried matching muffs to which were attached chrysanthemums, roses, and streamers.

Mrs. Emes is a graduate of Pottstown High school and for the past three years has been employed as a clerk in the patent office in Washington D. C. The bridegroom was graduated from Reading High school and, after serving for three years in the Navy, is employed in the Navy department in Washington.

Edging the illusion neckline was a row of Chantilly lace, while the long tapered sleeves came to a point over each wrist. The hooped skirt was picked up in the front at intervals by satin roses to reveal rows of Chantilly lace beneath. The same lace edged her long court train.

HER FINGERTIP veil was of imported French illusion net with scalloped edge and was attached to a coronet of seed pearls and rhinestones. She carried a prayerbook topped with a white orchid.

Her sister, Miss Margaret Bilger, attended as maid of honor in a gown of gold slipper satin featuring a bertha collar of satin and nylon net with fitted bodice. The skirt was of exaggerated fullness. She wore matching gauntlets and gold pumies in her hair. Her flowers were a fan shaped bouquet of orchid chrysanthemums.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

WHERE players have followed the new Laws of Contract Bridge, which came into force all over the civilized world on the first of this month, they have applauded the work of the formulating committees. Never have new Laws been so warmly welcomed. This time the wishes of the overwhelming majority of all players have been followed. The game itself has not been changed in the slightest degree, in its scoring or other fundamental. The sole alterations are in regulations which apply when someone happens to commit an irregularity. Penalties for irregularities—which are for the purpose of preventing undue damage to the non-offending side—have been so moderated that they cause no disproportionate harm to the offenders. And they have been so simplified that a large percentage of all players may learn and remember them, or at least the most important and most frequently applied penalties. Such sanity and clarity now maintain that any male player who considers himself a gentleman or any feminine player who considers herself a lady should be eager to pay one of the prescribed penalties in fact insist upon it, whenever inadvertence or any other factor has caused an infraction.

When the new regulations, of which all players may be proud, are cheerfully observed, the words of the preamble to the Laws will be true—"arguments are avoided and the pleasure which the game offers is materially enhanced."

The new Laws, published by co-operation of the John C. Winston Company of Philadelphia and available through any bookstore, begin with definitions of terms, using words in the habitual vocabularies of all devotees of the game. The rest is departmentalized in more or less chronological order—what happens prior to the auction, then general laws on irregularities, next occurrences during the play, and ultimately the scoring, after which comes a section on the properties of conduct and one on rules for club procedure. Relative brevity also is achieved, the new Laws covering only 45 pages of large type as against 62 for their immediate predecessors, and there are only 11 small-type footnotes as compared with 30 in the superseded code.

Any player may consider himself popular in his circle of friends by having a copy of the Laws for reference, or familiarizing himself with the most essential ones, so he may be an authority among his associates, thus contributing to their enjoyment of the game. It will be the purpose of this series to aid those who wish to render such service.

Let's today give the main provisions regarding a new deal, ordinarily called a re-deal. Summed up, there must be a new deal with the correct pack by the right dealer, with him alone shuffling, whenever it is learned before the last card is dealt that the deal was by the wrong dealer, or with the wrong pack, or that a card has been faced anywhere, or if it is ascertained before the first call of the auction that a player has picked up the wrong hand and seen any cards in it or if at any time before the end of play it is learned that one player had been dealt too many cards and another too few cards, or that the pack itself is incomplete or otherwise incorrect.

event, the dogs showed their absolute obedience to their masters.

A wire-haired terrier by the name of Corky, owned by Reaser, was in a playful mood and caused much amusement by his antics. Corky had been under instruction for only a short time.

Other dogs in this display were a Doberman Pinscher, "Duke," owned by Robert Feyl, Reading; a collie, "Laddie," owned by Woodrow Gring, Reading; a collie, "Clint," owned by Mrs. Clinton Shilling, of Shillington; and a cocker spaniel, "Rook," owned by Callie Nestle, Reading.

THE DOGS WERE an exhibit in two large tents and each dog had a separate booth to prevent possible battles. Larger dogs were kept in one tent and the smaller ones in the other.

THE VISITORS were profuse in their words of praise of the park as a place for the show.

PAUL KILBURN, Pottstown member of the show committee, was a busy man all day. A sound truck with Paul Hoffman in charge was kept busy. Several children got lost, someone lost a gold bracelet, another visitor was minus a ticket to Cynwyd. Dr. L. L. Pratt was available for attention to ill or injured dogs.

MISS DOROTHY DAVIS, of Birdsboro, a professional dog trainer, was busy throughout the day's program. It was her task to handle many dogs in the rings. This was quite a job she admitted.

CONSIDERABLE attention was paid to the dog exhibited by Miss Bowles. It is of the Bouvier des Flanders strain. These French dogs have been used for centuries in France to haul milk carts. They

Another work dog was shown by Mrs. Alma Memes, of York. This is called a Pulek. It comes from Asia where it is used to herd sheep and for heavier work. It is of the Hungarian shepherd dog species and there are only about 20 of the breed in the United States.

A 220-POUND St. Bernard dog was shown by Lynnar Brock, of Havertown. Two of the St. Bernard dogs caused some excitement by engaging in a fight in one of the exhibition tents. A woman was bitten on a hand.

BEDLINGTON Terriers, resembling sheep in appearance, were an oddity of the show. They were shown by Mrs. Velma Wallace, of Llanerch, and Col. Albert Roese, of Villanova college. This species originated in Bedlington, England. There are only a few of the species in this country. They are very playful and act in the ring like sportive lambs.

SAMUEL SCHEFFLER, of 409 Chestnut street, had his French poodles, Venus and Vazette, in the show and they attracted a lot of attention. They are only eight months old.

THOMAS A. BALDWIN, of Philadelphia, president of the Valley Forge Kennel club, told a Mercury reporter he was well pleased with Manatany park as a show place, but commented on the apparent lack of interest in dogs by Pottstowners. He said this was the first show given by the club and it may decide to show here again next year.

are of good size and powerfully built.

Another work dog was shown by Mrs. Alma Memes, of York. This is called a Pulek. It comes from Asia where it is used to herd sheep and for heavier work. It is of the Hungarian shepherd dog species and there are only about 20 of the breed in the United States.

A 220-POUND St. Bernard dog was shown by Lynnar Brock, of Havertown. Two of the St. Bernard dogs caused some excitement by engaging in a fight in one of the exhibition tents. A woman was bitten on a hand.

BEDLINGTON Terriers, resembling sheep in appearance, were an oddity of the show. They were shown by Mrs. Velma Wallace, of Llanerch, and Col. Albert Roese, of Villanova college. This species originated in Bedlington, England. There are only a few of the species in this country. They are very playful and act in the ring like sportive lambs.

SAMUEL SCHEFFLER, of 409 Chestnut street, had his French poodles, Venus and Vazette, in the show and they attracted a lot of attention. They are only eight months old.

THOMAS A. BALDWIN, of Philadelphia, president of the Valley Forge Kennel club, told a Mercury reporter he was well pleased with Manatany park as a show place, but commented on the apparent lack of interest in dogs by Pottstowners. He said this was the first show given by the club and it may decide to show here again next year.

Wampler Gets Post In Doehler Union

Dee F. Wampler, former president of Local 703, Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (CIO), yesterday was named secretary of the Doehler-Jarvis Die Casting company union.

Wampler will serve the unexpired term of Milton Saylor, who resigned to take a job in a supervisory capacity in the firm.

The term will expire at the end of the year. Before then, however, final nominations will be held on Nov. 14 and elections on Nov. 23. Wampler will seek the presidency.

At its regular meeting yesterday, the local voted a $25 monthly donation to the Salvation Army to help with doughnut service for the Valley Forge General hospital.

The meeting of 150 unionists also agreed to buy about $50 worth of Christmas cigars for Valley Forge patients.

The local approved handing the Community Chest drive through solicitations for foremen at the plant. The management will have to ratify the plan before it is final.

Short Circuit Blamed For Minor Car Blaze

The Philadelphia Steam Fire Engine company was called when the wiring in an automobile driven by Raymond J. Gervais, 628 Beech, had been put out and they had only to disconnect the battery cable.

Damage to the wiring was estimated at $25. Firemen blamed a short circuit for the brief blaze, which flared up at King and Washington streets at 2:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Dutch Schaeffer Dominates Racing Program at Sanatoga

San Francisco Wins 8th in Row; Eagles Whip Redskins, 45-0

NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (AP)—The power-laden Western division leaders of the National Football League and the All-America conference scored smashing triumphs today in a day of large scores and small crowds.

The unbeaten Chicago Bears crushed the Detroit Lions, 38-0, to stay a game in front of the Chicago Cardinals in the Western half race of the National League. The Cards pulverized the New York Giants, 63-23, in the highest scoring game in NFL history.

San Francisco's 49ers, Western half leaders of the All-America conference, humbled the New York Yanks, 21-7, for their eighth straight victory without a loss. The defending champion Cleveland Browns trounced the Buffalo Bills, 31-14, in making their seventh consecutive win without a defeat.

Dutch Schaeffer, king of the American Racing Drivers club, finished three laps ahead of Len Duncan to win the 25-lap feature sweepstakes as midget auto racing returned to Sanatoga under ARDC sanction yesterday afternoon.

A throng of 1600 fans saw Schaeffer take the lead on the sixth lap of the main event and stay in front until he got the checkered flag at the finish line.

Behind Duncan in third place was the Norris racing ace, Larry Bloomer, who got his start in midget auto racing at Sanatoga over 10 years ago.

Schaeffer, who dominated midget racing at the Yellow Jacket speedway in Philadelphia during the Summer, was timed in 6:03.2 for the 25 laps.

SCHAEFFER, besides winning the feature event, won a 12-lap qualifying heat and finished first in one of the 15-lap semi-final features on the seven event program.

Duncan, driving an Offenhauser like Schaeffer and Bloomer, won two events and finished second in the feature.

Bloomer finished the program with one first and two seconds. He won the second qualifying heat on the card.

Karl Spatz, said he will have more Offenhauser cars at next week's program at Sanatoga. Spatz also said races will continue at the local macadam track until cold weather hits this area. He said he hopes to run races until the middle of November.

READING VVV'S TOP TWIN-BORO BY 7-6 SCORE

Berks Countians Come From Behind to Avenge Early Season Defeat

The Reading VVV's football team eked out a 7-6 victory over Twin-Boro AA yesterday afternoon at Lake View Memorial park in Royersford to avenge a defeat suffered at the hands of Twin-Boro earlier this year.

All scoring was done in the third period. The touchdown which put Twin-Borough out in front came soon after Hartman, Reading fullback, tried a field goal from the 40-yard line. The ball fell short of its mark into the arms of Jim Golie, local quarterback. Golie returned the ball to the 25-yard line. After a few plays, Dick Pennypacker lunged through the line for a nice gain, and before he was tackled, laterated to Bob Tyson, who raced the remaining 60 yards to score. Mungin missed the extra point, which later proved a costly failure.

Hartman took the next kick-off for VVV from Raquet and was downed on the 42. A passing attack led straight toward the local goal after advancing to the local 35-yard line. Bill Kase manipulated a perfect pass to Randy Hummel, an end, who was waiting back of the goal line. Hummel held on to it and scored. Hartman kicked the extra point which won the game.

The two World Series hurlers, rivals in the Winter exhibition circuit, showed their stuff for 7452 fans at Wrigley field. Lemon yielded four hits and two runs. Paine gave up three hits and one run.

OPENING DINNER COMMUNITY CHEST CAMPAIGN TOMORROW EVENING AT THE YMCA

HOW THE COMMUNITY CHEST GOT ITS START
Back in '87, the people of Denver called a meeting to ask, "Isn't there a better way for our charities to raise funds than by separate drives?"
Out of that meeting the Chest idea was born. Four men of God—two ministers, a priest, and a rabbi—were among its inspired leaders. Time has proved how far-sighted they were.
Our Community Chest substitutes order and economy for the chaos and waste of a flood of separate drives, ensures fair distribution of funds. And today as in '87 it unites citizens of all faiths in serving and giving for the good of the whole community.

Can you answer these questions about our Community Chest?

- Q What are the Red Feather services?

A You'll find them listed at the bottom of this message.
- Q How much money do they need?

A $97,307
- Q How do we know?

A A committee of our citizens has studied the needs of the community and the budgets of each agency. Incidentally, the high cost of living has affected every community service, too. Costs of food, clothing, medicine, building, upkeep—they're way up for Red Feather services just as they are for you.
- Q Who decides how much each Red Feather service gets?

A Our committee weighs the importance of each service to this community... and allocates the funds accordingly.
- Q How does Community Chest?

A It is estimated that two out of every five families in town use one or more Red Feather services during a given year. They are the direct beneficiaries. Actually, of course, every one of us benefits when we live in a town where community spirit and conscience really protect young people, strengthen family life, provide health and medical services, care for the helpless, handicapped and aged. Wouldn't you say so?
- Q How much should I give?

A That's strictly up to you. You might find the answer by asking yourself how much you'd give to each Red Feather service if they came to you separately. Add the answers and try to match the total. Remember—one pledge covers many Red Feather services. Because we have a well-managed Community Chest uniting many appeals, you are called on only once a year for all of them. So when you give, GIVE ENOUGH... enough for ALL Red Feather services... enough for a FULL year.
- Q Do I have to pay my pledge all at once?

A No, indeed. You may pay it quarterly during the year when it is most convenient. The Community Chest pledge plan enables you to give more than you can give now. Your word is as good as your bond.

A Message From the Burgess

The annual campaign of the Pottstown Community Chest will be launched WEDNESDAY.

This Red Feather Campaign will present a new challenge to our citizens to demonstrate their belief in the American way of life and their interest in the welfare of our community.

Citizens of the Pottstown area are interested in making Pottstown and vicinity the healthiest and most prosperous community possible. The eleven Chest agencies play a vital part in maintaining the highest possible standard of community life.

Therefore each of us should welcome the opportunity of taking an active part, either as a worker or as a contributor, in making our Chest campaign another outstanding success this year. By so doing, we will have the satisfaction of participating in a program that will bring added comfort and happiness to our own and neighbors, and will offer unmistakable evidence that our community will more nearly fulfill the ideals that make us proud of our citizenship.

[Signed]
William A. Griffith

The newly-wedded couple left later for Kankakee, Ill., to visit the bride's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley H. Whitman. The couple will live in a newly-furnished apartment at Main and Church streets, Schwenksville.

The bride formerly was employed at Superior Tube company, Collegeville. Mr. Anstett is employed at Schuylkill Valley Mills, Spring City.
